JUNE 1960 - SEPTEMBER 1964

STATUS SURVEY REPORT OF THE PROPOSED
GULMARG WILDLIFE SANCTUARY.

Nomenclature:-

The famous health resort Gulmarg is located in the heart of the proposed Wildlife Sanctuary, therefore named after the resort.

Situation:-

The area is situated to the southwest of the Srinagar at a distance of about 50 Kms. It encompasses the top catchment of Farozpora nalla and forests surrounding the Gulmarg bowl.

Boundaries:-

North Jehlum Valley Forest division
South Forest Divisions of Poonch and Pirpanjal ~~Range~~
East ~~village~~ Forest Divisions of Jehlum Valley.
West Forest Division and Poonch.

Area:-

The proposed tract comprises of the area roughly 180 sq.Kms. and involves the top catchment of Farozpora nalla and forests surrounding the Gulmarg bowl. The proposed area is roughly rectangular, located between 33°55' to 34°00' north latitude and 74°17' to 74°29' east longitude and the altitude ranges between 2,400 metres to 4,300 metres.

G.T. Sheet 43 $\frac{3}{8}$

Concessions:-

The area is devoid of any human settlement. But is under enormous pressure of summer grazing both local and non-local. In fact, the locals bordering the area, including the tourist lodges in Gulmarg entirely depend upon the fire-wood in the area.

Soil:-

The topography is generally rugged and the range of altitude in the area goes to rocky precipices in the upper terrain. The area is a part of the main Pir Panjal range on which aspect the geology of the area is mainly of volcanic rocks, where acidic lava flows are still exposed in ridges like Sheen, explosive slate and metamorphic rocks.

✓ 749 (4)

Climate:-

The main precipitation generally due to winter snow fall, the winter is extremely cold and experiences heavy snow fall in winter while summer is pleasant.

Flora:-

A large proportion of the area in the tract is blank, consisting of rocky mountain sides. The main flora of the area consists of conifers, the dominant species being Abies Picea, Ficus griffithii Pedunculata, some broad leaved species like Acacia Jasminiflora, Acor spp; Fraxinus koerberi, Populus cilinensis, Padus cornuta, etc occur in moist nullas and depressions. The under growth consists mainly of Viburnum spp; Spiraea Lanceola, Sambucus Verbascum Thapsus etc. The herbaceous ground cover predominantly consists of Viola odorata, Fragaria vesca, Oxalis Asperula, Imperata Patientia, Primula spp, Clatha spp; etc.

Tree Salix utilis, Salix prostrate etc; occur in the higher alpine belts.

Fauna:-

The tract harbours a rich wealth of wildlife. The principal wild animals found in the area include the Himalayan Musk deer, yellow-throated Marten, Himalayan Black Bear, Grey Langur and also some ex. Leopard, Leopard and Himalayan Brown Bear etc.

Avi-Fauna :-

Wild life of the area is rich and varied. The common species are cinnamon's sparrow, Kashmir pied wood pecker, Jungle & crow, Large spotted Nut cracker, Himalayan white bellied thrush, Chestnut breasted flycatcher, Meadow Lark, Black breasted Lark, pale blue warbler etc. The proposed wildlife sanctuary is also richly endowed with rich and variety of rare birds viz; Himalayan monal, Monal, Koklass and Western tragopan.

Recommendation:-

The area has a natural setting of extraordinary beauty and is a typical representative of high altitude mountainous environment. The flora and fauna harboured by it is luxuriant, rich and varied. The proposed wildlife sanctuary has a suitable area under green grassy pastures and meadows which though uncommercial from forestry point of view, are equally essential for the fauna which is mostly herbi. The characteristic, topography and inaccessibility of major part has accorded to the tract a natural protection against biotic influences.

In view of the above facts the area was declared as Manas Biosphere Reserve in the year 1981, but in order to ensure better protection to the unique flora in general and to conserve, protect and multiply the endangered species listed over in particular along with the areas the said reserve is suggested to be declared as Wildlife Sanctuary under section 17.I of Jammu and Kashmir Wildlife (Protection) Act of 1976.
